TROOPS REVIEWED.

Regulars at Fort Wright Paraded Before Colonel Dorsey.

The review of regular troops, tendered Col. Henry S. Dorsey, commanding the Connecticut coast artillery, Thursday evening, was the most spectacular feature of the Connecticut coast artillery corps camps at Fishers Island. The six companies and band, forming a grand total of 1,200 men, were reviewed by the commanding officer, Col. Richmond P. Dorsey, commanding the Connecticut coast artillery, and the reviewing officer then passed from the right to the left of the front and rear of the companies, taking up their station while the men marched in review. In deference to Colonel Dorsey the regular troops played the Second Connecticut march.

TWO SCARLET FEVER CASES FOUND

Also One of Diphtheria in Families on Second Street—No Doctors Attending—Three Year Old Child in Peeling Stage on the Street—Mothers Hide Their Children From Health Officer Lewis.

On a tour of inspection on Friday afternoon of the Shattuck company house in Greenville, Dr. Agnew, physician for the company, located two cases of scarlet fever and one of diphtheria which due to the time of his visit had had no medical attendance, and in one of the scarlet fever cases the little three-year-old girl who had it was in the peeling stage and has been roaming the streets in perfect freedom. One of the scarlet fever cases was in the family of Ignatius Tuka at 30 Second street. There was a diphtheria case in the family of Mrs. Annie Pitzitz at No. 28 Second street, and another scarlet fever case in the family of Mrs. Pitzitz at No. 374 North Main street. Both the children with scarlet fever were girls about a year and a half old. The mother of the child with diphtheria was a baby 12 months old.

Four to the Hospital.
 The three cases were at once reported to the health officer, Dr. N. B. Lewis, who made an immediate investigation. All three of the cases were taken to the hospital for treatment under the circumstances and his investigation showed one more case of scarlet fever in the family of Mrs. Annie Pitzitz at No. 28 Second street, and another scarlet fever case in the family of Mrs. Pitzitz at No. 374 North Main street. Both the children with scarlet fever were girls about a year and a half old. The mother of the child with diphtheria was a baby 12 months old.

Police Were Called On.
 There was one more case of scarlet fever to investigate, which was at No. 374 North Main street, in the Pelikavitz family, but the mother had learned to call on the police to find the child. While he went out to telephone to the police and for the ambulance, the mother had the child brought from some place to which it had been taken outside of the house.

Will Fumigate Neighborhood.
 Dr. Lewis placarded the houses with the quarantine signs and will give fumigation to the neighborhood by inspection and fumigation today.

Were Trying to Move Out.
 The doctor had to go to New London between 5 and 7 o'clock and upon his return he sent a telephone message that the quarantined Pelikavitz family at No. 374 North Main street was being out and had their goods all loaded on an express wagon. He let the police know at once and was just in time to catch Serg. John Kane who was going on duty in the Greenville district. The sergeant got there in time to see the family moving their goods back into the house that they intended to vacate. A watch will be kept on them to see if they do not try to repeat the attempt to get away.

Mothers Hide Their Children.
 The advent of the health officer in the neighborhood of the Bagtown ledgers and the immediate hiding of all the children with which this street was infested, was a most interesting sight to make a further search among other houses of the neighborhood. Second street had suddenly become the home of absolutely no children, and according to the mothers, and not one could be found to admit that she had any children.

Dr. Lewis learned of the scarlet fever cases from the health officer.

STILL PUSHING SEARCH.
 FOR WILLIAM O'BRIEN
 Man Answering His Description Seen Near Bagtown Ledgers.

Reports that William O'Brien of Avery street had been seen in the neighborhood of the Bagtown ledgers at about dusk on Thursday evening gave the searchers for this missing man a renewed hope of finding him on Friday, but their search in that neighborhood did not result in finding him. The search was continued along the road in the neighborhood on Thursday evening reported that a man who was closely dressed in the description of Mr. O'Brien had passed her on the road.

EIGHTH ANNUAL CONCERT BY ACADEMY MUSICAL CLUB

Meritorious Programme Successfully Given—Wreath of Laurel to Director Cranston.

The Academy Musical club scored another triumph at its eighth annual concert held at Slater Hall on Friday evening. There was a very large audience and they were more than pleased with the entertainment. The programme was an interesting one and it was carried out in excellent manner. The club has made great progress and increased in membership and its selection of director and members. They were enthusiastically applauded and an enormous number of their programme.

They were assisted by the Girls' Glee club, the Academy quartette and the girls' gymnastic class. The Girls' Glee club, directed by Miss Helen M. Kelley, gave two good selections and for entrance a song about the Norwich girls. The Academy quartette, Harold W. Bliss and Charles D. Frenette, were as entertaining as ever and were persistently recalled until five songs, including several new and original hits upon Academy affairs, had brought down the house.

Exceedingly pretty and graceful was the dance, La Rosi, given by ten girls from the gymnastic dancing class, of which Miss Katherine Moore is the instructor. In the red and white Academy colors they made a pretty picture in the dancing. The music was rendered by part of the orchestra. The girls' gymnastic class, The Girls' Glee club, directed by Miss Helen M. Kelley, gave two good selections and for entrance a song about the Norwich girls. The Academy quartette, Harold W. Bliss and Charles D. Frenette, were as entertaining as ever and were persistently recalled until five songs, including several new and original hits upon Academy affairs, had brought down the house.

After an intermission, the Girls' Glee club gave A Song of Spring (Nedlinger) and a song about the Spring (Mrs. H. H. Beach). For the second part of the programme these were the selections:

March Lorraine, Ganne
 Liebeslied, Atherton
 Publied, Devorak
 Humoreske, Devorak
 Sympathy, Waltz song from the
 Hungarian Dances Nos. 5 and 6, Brahms
